HOMER H. NORTON
Head Coach

CURTIS PARKER
Assistant Coach

RALPH MURFF
Freshman Coach

Homer H. Norton, Athletic Director and Head Coach

Coach Norton has served Centenary in athletics for thirteen years. During the past eight years he has served as head coach and his teams have all made good records for themselves. His ability as a coach and a leader of men has been proved by his phenomenal success in consistently defeating the leading teams of the South with a small squad of inspired players. His undefeated teams of 1927 and 1932 caused the nation's sport writers to designate the Centenary Gents as the "Little Wonder Team of the South."

Curtis Parker, Assistant Coach

Coach Parker came to Centenary as Freshmen Coach in 1926 after a successful athletic career at the University of Arkansas. Since his promotion to assistant coach he has not only proved a valuable assistant to Coach Norton in developing the line play of the team, but has gained wide recognition as a scout and strategist.

Ralph Murff, Freshman Coach

Murff was a member of the undefeated team of last year and his brilliant play in the backfield attracted the attention of the sports writers and fans of the South. His ability as a leader and his knowledge of the game make him an ideal choice as coach of the first year men.

Picking the Winners in Southwestern Conference Championship Race

By FLEM R. HALL
Sports Writer of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram

For the sake of a reawakening interest as well as variety, let's talk football a little bit. It's September, there's a little bite of Fall in the air for a few minutes in the mornings, and the gridiron dopebug, dormant all Summer, is commencing to sink teeth into followers of the grand school sport.

He crawled into the Star-Telegram sports department Saturday and laid hold of three of his annual victims. In a few minutes they had paper and pencil trying to figure out how the 1933 Southwest Conference race will end.

Each—LeRoy Menzing, Amos Melton and the writer—made out a list showing the number of games he believes will be won and lost by each of the seven clubs. The consolidated vote made A. & M. and S. M. U. joint favorites to finish on top, with T. C. U. a close third. Texas, Rice, Baylor and Arkansas finished in the order named.

The individual selections revealed a wide difference in opinion. We, for instance, rated Baylor an even chance to tie for the championship, while the other two placed the Bears near the bottom.

YOUNG

The composite selection looked something like this:

Team—	W.	L.	T.	Pct.	Team—	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
S. M. U.	4	2	0	.667	Rice	2	3	1	.416
A. & M.	2	1	2	.667	Baylor	2	3	0	.416
T. C. U.	3	2	1	.583	Arkansas	1	3	1	.300
Texas	3	3	0	.500

Two Things to Remember:

The Gents meet the L. S. U. Tigers October 14 in Baton Rouge.
The Gents Meet Loyola November 30 in New Orleans.
Spend the Thanksgiving Holidays in New Orleans and see the two big games: Centenary vs. Loyola, Thursday and Tulane vs. L. S. U. Saturday.
